

About the builder...

Vintage – B.T. Neely Custom Homes is a joint venture between Vintage Construction and B.T. Neely Construction. This new company was formed for the sole purpose of combining the strengths of two of the Huntsville area's top custom home builders. This new partnership will bring the finest in residential home construction to McMullen Cove.

Vintage – B.T. Neely Custom Homes has over 30 years of combined homebuilding experience. They have based their company on one premise, give the customer more than they expect in every aspect of the project. This process begins with communication, progresses through the design and specification process and ends with a product that is second to none.

This team of home builders fully realizes what it takes to generate an outstanding home. They oversee each phase of construction personally, using only the highest quality materials and workmanship. They have built a prestigious reputation in Madison County for their professional knowledge of the building industry and attention to detail. They encourage all of their customers to be involved in the project from beginning to end.

Another unique attribute of Vintage – B.T. Neely Custom Homes is they have their own custom trim and wood-working division, ensuring the finest quality in finish carpentry for all of their homes.

Together, as a joint venture builder, they are an unbeatable team.

Nothing has been spared in this warm and inviting European Manor home built by Byrne Turner and Dwain Clardy of Vintage-B.T. Neely Custom Homes. This talented team delights in delivering their signature WOW factor by incorporating items of architectural interest, and artifacts from centuries back, truly making each home one of a kind.
