Bryan Pogue owns and operates Matrix Builders with a vision to build unique custom homes in highly sought after Madison County Communities. Bryan believes by achieving this vision, he can provide a home that will bring immediate customer pride as well as continued appreciation in value.

Every custom home by Matrix Builders is built to the highest quality standards, incorporates features that go beyond normal customer expectations, and utilizes the latest technologies and products available in the homebuilding industry. Bryan takes the time to get to know the customer's ideas and desires so that upon completion of the building process he is providing not just a house, but a home. He believes the key element in achieving complete customer satisfaction is maintaining exceptional business relations with key suppliers and subcontractors. His guiding principle is, building a new home is a team effort with co-operation in all phases of the project – design, construction, and after-sale service.

Matrix Builders recognizes that every building project is unique and hence should be exciting and rewarding for both the builder and homeowner. The majority of Bryan's continued business has been from referrals from highly satisfied customers. From pre-construction to well after closing Matrix Builders will far exceed your expectations with honesty, integrity, quality work, attention to detail, and a commitment to excellence!
